Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of Simmons Liver Regulator by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost imfelt its beneficial effects almost im-I felt its beneficial enects almost mediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia. J. N. Prohibition Song. BY J. C. WELLS, CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

A hopeless grisf,
Which spuras relief,
Inthralls the multitudes who dwell
In homes once bright With sacred light, Now blackened by the shades of hell!

O shall there come a day,

When rum shall lose its sway, And sorrows flee away? A ruthless band,

On every hand— Ordained by law the power to wield Of death and sin— Hath entered in: Beneath whose touch all hope must yield

Yet comes there not a day

When rum shall lose its sway, And sorrows fice away? The voice of God Is heard abroad, To free the law, and ransom men From depths of gloom; And bid the bloom Of Elen clothe the earth again!

O speed the joyous day When rum shall lose its sway, And sorrows flee away.

And rescued law Shall hold in awe, With edict stern, the cruel hand Which would destroy The founts of joy, And desolate the fairest land.

And thus shall come the day When rum shall lose its sway, And sorrows flee away.

The chains must rend; The wees must end; And prisons yawn for prey in vain, And hope return To hearts that yearn; And peace resume its hallowed reign,

Then haste the joyous day When rum shall lose its sway,

The secret circular has taken a new direction. It is asserted that it is Forf Worth Gazette.

This plain question coines home to every heasekeeper. We all desire pure and wholesome food, and this cannot be had with the use of impure or poisonous baking powder.

If selling intoxicants is injurious to society the power to do this should be taken from the privileged class who sell it as a beverage, and placed in the hands of such only as will sell it for good uses only. The power to sell it as a beverage has been taken from the masses. Why does it work applauded. The Colonel began:

We have met for the purpose of discussing what is well known as the prohibition curtails the revenues of government, needs but a moment's thought and a plain statement of facts. Annually the people of Texas exchange horses, cows, cotton and wealth in other forms, to the amount of millions of dollars for intoxicating liquors.
